Choosing The Right Wet Mop

Spend a little time reading the next page. You might discover you're using the wrong mop or you're working way too hard with a mop not optimal for the cleaning task.

DURABILITY

A mop's durability depends on its quality, type of yarn and ability to be laundered many times without degrading performance.

Mops made from a synthetic blend, microfibre or antimicrobial yarn have the greatest durability and highest initial cost. In most cases, they also represent the best value if they are laundered and dried out between uses.

Construction also plays a big part. Look for an all mesh, fast drying synthetic headband, looped-ends, and tailband tape to prevent tangles in the laundry.

ABSORBENCY

The ability for a mop to pick up liquids and hold them is a measure of absorbency. This characteristic is an important performance measure because it means the floor will dry faster.

Mops made from cotton have the best absorbency. Be aware: new cotton mops require conditioning prior to use by placing them in a bucket of cold water for six hours. Our mops of blended cotton and synthetic (Tuffstuff®) are a wise choice for high-traffic areas.

RELEASE

Release is the measure of how quickly the yarn releases liquid to the floor. Higher levels of release mean the mop can be wrung more completely. It also means liquids that are supposed to stay on the floor, such as germicides and finishes, stay on the floor.

For general mopping, release is not the most important characteristic.

Our nylon and rayon mops are used for applying finishes. Because the yarns have closed membranes, very little liquid is absorbed. The fibre remains strong with no lint-off because of the homogeneous nature of the material.

PERFORMANCE

We rate general performance by examining how much the mop is capable of picking up in an application and how long the mop is expected to last.

We believe our new Microloop, Tuffstuff® and Bacstop™ (antimicrobial) mops all offer the best performance under general mopping conditions.

Atlas Graham has many speciality wet mops for all challenging floor surfaces such as rough-cut slate.

When James D. Graham founded the Atlas Brush Company in 1941, he laid a foundation comprised of some very basic principles:

QUALITY: To make the very best products possible.

SERVICE: To deliver those products when and where our customers need them.

Almost seven decades and three generations later, it remains our mission to enhance these philosophies, giving them new and personal meaning, with all of our professional partners. Our stability and prosperity has a direct relationship with you, our valued customer.

TIPS ON FLOOR STRIPPING

- START WITH A STANDARD EQUIPMENT CHECKLIST
- MEASURE CHEMICALS ACCORDING TO MANUFACTURER'S INSTRUCTIONS
- TRANSPORT ALL NEEDED EQUIPMENT AND TOOLS
- SET UP TEMPORARY BARRIERS
- WEAR SAFETY EQUIPMENT
- CLEAN UP WHILE YOU CLEAN

DURA PLUS® TRACTION ^{new}

TRACTION is a blend of surfactants which contains wetting, penetrating and cleaning properties. It is very effective for removing grease on hard surfaces. The efficiency of TRACTION can be seen within a few minutes after its application.

The only reliable and practical method of getting rid of polymerization is to scrub the area with TRACTION, the best and most effective cleaner available on the market.

DURA PLUS® Y-SLIP ^{new}

Y-SLIP wet floor safety technology provides increased traction when floor is wet on most mineral surfaces, including ceramic tile, quarry tile, terrazzo, concrete, porcelain or enamel bathtubs. Simple and safe to use.

DID YOU KNOW?

What Makes a Floor Slippery?

Polymerization is caused by molecules of grease and food particles linking together to form a microscopic film on the surface. The molecules of grease are carried airborne by steam and fall to the surface when the steam evaporates. The food particles are split on the floor and then ground (stepped on) into the grease molecules. Dry soap residue consists of soda ash used in all alkaline degreasers to break down grease particles. This soda ash can never be fully removed by rinsing as the particles are so small that together with microscopically broken down grease particles they lodge themselves into the natural pores of all mineral surfaces. As the floor dries after cleaning, these particles do not evaporate into the water. (This is the reason why a quarry tile, one of the most porous hard surfaces, stains so badly after a few months.) When liquid is split on the surface, the residue becomes soap once again, only this time it is combined with trapped grease particles.
